☞ Notice.

DIFFICULTIES arising from the nature of the following work, the publisher has been compelled to remove to Philadelphia for the better execution of his plan. The editorial department has in consequence fallen into other hands. Mr. ALLEN'S present engagement rendering it impossible to superintend it in another city. The friends and relations of the different signers to the Declaration of Independence are therefore requested to direct their favors to the publisher, No. 443, Market-street, Philadelphia.

PROPOSALS

By Joseph M Sanderson,

For Publishing by Subscription,

A Biography of the Signers

OF THE

Declaration of Independence,

Accompanied with Plates.

To which will be annexed a History of the Proceedings of Congress, during the passage of the Law, and the Declaration itself, with the fac simile Engravings of the Signatures.

By JOHN SANDERSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

When we consider the personal qualities of the statesmen whose names are affixed to the Declaration of Independence, the perilous occasion which demanded the exercise of their wisdom and deliberation, and the influence of their councils on the interests of mankind, we must acknowledge that very rarely a more imposing spectacle has been offered to the world, and we shall seek in vain in the annals of nations, for an event more worthy of commemoration, and of being cherished forever in the hearts of a grateful and generous people. The love of independence is interwoven with the frame and constitution of the human mind. It is almost the first sentiment that animates the infant's features in the cradle; and amongst all the actions and enterprizes of man, none has awaked into activity a greater exertion of the virtuous energies of his nature, none has excited a greater warmth of veneration, and has more imperious claims upon our gratitude, than resistance to tyranny and political aggression.

In all republican states the first tribute of genius has been paid to the patriot or the hero who has promoted the cause of liberty and maintained the independence and dignity of man. The animated canvas and breathing marble have rescued his features from the grasp of death, and the pen of the historian has inscribed the achievements to the imperishable records of fame. It would indeed be no favorable prognostic of the perpetuity of our republican institutions to discover an insensibility to the obligations we owe the memory of the illustrious patrons of American freedom. They have raised us, by their magnanimity, from the arbitrary dominion of a foreign power, to the distinguished elevation of a sovereign and independent people; they have asserted and maintained the imprescriptiole rights of humanity by the "mutual pledge of their pledge of their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors;" and, as long as virtue holds her empire in the hearts of their successors, the example of these generous benefactors will not be lost to the world; their names will not pass away nor be forgotten, or their glorious deeds be confounded in the common and casual transaction of life.—Ingratitude is a vice that in nations, as well as individuals, indicates the last degree of degeneracy and corruption; it is a vice that implies the absence of every virtue; it was in the age of Caligula that the name of the Scipios was proscribed, that the state of Brutus brought death on its possessor.

"The glory of our ancestors is the light of posterity," and the homage of the living cannot be offered to the merits of the illustrious dead with an effectual or sterile admiration. Great and splendid actions will seldom be achieved by men who have humble or ordinary objects in prospect. It is by contemplating the life and character of those who are marked out from the multitude by their eminent qualities, that we become emulous of their virtues and their renown. The trophies of Miltiades interrupted the sleeps of Themistocles; and Theseus, hearing the exploits of Hercules, was fired with his spirit, and became the successful rival of his fame. The rude savage of the desert listens with rapture to the deeds of his ancestors, and hangs around his hut the emblems of his father's valour.

More need not be said to enforce the utility of the publication we have undertaken, and which we now submit to the patronage of our fellow-citizens, with a hope, that from the liberality of their encouragement, we shall be able to present it to the public worthy of their approbation. We must depend for the illustration of many of the characters of our biography, upon the generosity of their surviving relatives and friends, to furnish us with whatever interesting materials may be in their possession; for which, with our grateful acknowledgments, we promise a copy of the entire work as a compensation.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work will be published in numbers or half volumes of 200 pages, octavo, and contained in ten numbers. To the first will be prefixed an appropriate frontispiece—and the work will be commenced with the declaration of independence, with engraved fac similes of the signatures, and a compendious detail of the proceedings of congress, during the passage of the law. Each of the lives, unless when it is impracticable, will be preceded by a likeness of the person, engraved by the best artists in the United States.

II. It will be printed on fine paper, made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per number, payable on delivery.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1819.

THE DYING QUAKER.

As good Ezekiel on his bed
Lay sick and full of fears,
Attended only by his maid,
Who oft in need had lent him aid—
His eyes gushed out with tears.

The simple girl, to soothe his pain,
And mitigate his grief,
Thus try'd in consolating strain,
(Nor was she wont to try in vain)
To give his woes relief.

Ah! wherefore master should you dread
Death's all subduing dart;
You who so good a life have led,
And so clear and wise a head
Join'd purity of heart?

Your garb was always neat and plain,
Your hair full strait and sleek;
And let it hail, or snow, or rain,
No weather could your zeal restrain
From meeting thrice a week.

You never swear as others use,
Nor speak but to some end!
You never paid the parson's dues,
You never debauch'd your neighbor's wife,
Nor even told a lie.

At this Ezekiel shook his head,
And heav'd a piteous tear;
Then thus in grief of heart he said,
And sunk dejected on his bed,
"Ah! Betty—I've been sly!

Madam, my lord is dying for you—I wish he was, and that he may never importune me again on the subject of love.

A quaker in a stage coach with an officer, observed that his sword was very troublesome. All my enemies are of the same opinion, replied the captain.

IDLENESS.

Bishop Taylor once told a lady of his acquaintance, who was neglecting the education of her son, "Madam, if you do not choose to fill your boy's head with something, believe me, the devil will." The Spanish proverb says, the devil tempts every man: but the idle man positively tempts the devil.

CARDINAL RICHLIEU.

Cardinal Richlieu, who said that unfortunate and imprudent are two words which signify the same thing, seems to have founded this maxim on the singular happiness of his own administration. He was certainly a very great politician; but he had all the power as well as the whole revenue of France at his disposal. He had a regiment of guards for his own person; and the favors which he was constantly conferring on his officers and domestics attached them to him, and secured their fidelity. It must further be considered, that he made no scruple of removing any man out of the way who would not implicitly submit to his will, or who seemed in any respect to disapprove his measures. Volez vous etre a moi? was the question he asked Mareschal Bassompierre, which because the Mareschal did not readily and directly answer, he was sent the next morning to the bastile, where he was a prisoner until the cardinal's death, about eighteen years.

REMARKABLE LONGEVITY.

There is a man now living in Sanford, in this county, aged 96. He was born February 28, 1724, new style. His name is —— Tibbetts. He is in the full exercise of his mental faculties. His sight, hearing and memory are little or nothing impaired. He has good bodily health. His person is straight and erect, and he is now able to perform considerable labor. He is a a native of Somersworth, N. H. and well recollects before there was any meeting house, for public worship, in that ancient town; was acquainted with Portsmouth before any part of that town was settled westwardly of the rev. Dr. Buckminster's meeting house, and when the town was but a small village. He recollects when the Ossipee and Pigwalket Indians, used to go down to Berwick in the summer month, in tribes, between the long peace from 1727 to 1744, for the purpose of taking fish. He continues to take a lively interest in the passing events of the day, and thinks, from the great experience he has had, that the separation of Maine, from Massachusetts, will be injurious to both parts of the commonwealth. He was a soldier in the war against the French and Indians, in the years 1746 and '7, and was stationed at the various garrisons, and outposts in the town of Rochester, Berwick and other places. At the time he removed to his present residence in Sanford, which is only 38 years since, there was but one dwelling house between him and Canada. He has lived under the reign of the three Georges.

[Weekly Visiter.

ALEXANDRIA:
THURSDAY MORNING, November 11.

It is stated in the London papers that the Emperor of Austria has determined to send a minister to the United States; and that the Baron J. Von Weiss has received from his sovereign the appointment.

Letters from St. Eustatia per the Dove, state, that the islands of St. Kitts, Montserrat, &c. were open for the admission of bread stuffs, lumber, &c. from the United States, and in American vessels for six months. Flour at St. Eustatia, 20 dollars—Corn meal 22 dollars. [Relf's Gaz.

Letters from Valparaiso to the 12th of August are received at New-York. Lord Cochrane was about to sail with his squadron to renew the blockade of Callao. Hopes were entertained that he might fall in with the two Spanish 74's and frigate Prueba 44, which sailed from Cadiz on the 9th May; and the letters state, not only that he intended to attack them, but that little doubt was entertained of his capturing them.

Norfolk, Nov. 5.

The Venezuelean private armed brig Wilson, Capt. Huntress, came up from below last evening, in charge of the Deputy Marshal of the United States, having been taken in custody by order of the Collector of this port, for some informality in her entry at the Custom-House—requiring investigation.

[Beacon.

We learn that the squadron, under the command of Commodore Charles Morris, will sail on a cruize, from Hampton Roads, this day, on special service. [Ibid.

Extract of a letter to the editor of the Democratic Press, dated

"St. Thomas, 12th Oct. 1819.

"In Tortola there are but 10 houses standing, in St. Barts all vessels ashore; St. Martins has suffered dreadfully—St. Croix felt but little—St Kitts and Nevis suffered much. The governor of St. Kitts has opened the island for flour, bread stuffs, and all kinds of provisions & lumber, cattle, horses, &c. for 6 months. Porto Rico has suffered much. It is supposed that the brig Joseph, S. Lewis, of your port, coming from St. Barts to this place, was lost during the storm, having left St. Barts on the 21st in the evening.

"From Margaretta there are daily British officers arriving here, who have left the Independent service in disgust—the fever rages amongst the English at Margaretta most dreadfully. General English is dead of it, and a number more.

"Bolivar is positively at Santa Fe. New Grenada has furnished him with 8,000 men and about two millions of dollars. Samanos, the viceroy, saved himself with but few attendants, and by way of Monpos reached Carthagena. We hear by way of Porto Cavella that he has been defeated by colonel Aguanequi, and has escaped to Maracaibo; he is encamped at Teribaco, twelve miles distant from Carthagena, on an elevated spot, but it is confidently asserted that he has but 100 men with him. The Spanish general Latone is with 250 men (all that remains of the five regiments of Navarre) at Cucuta, but general Morillo stands at St. Carlos about 120 miles to the westward of Carraccas, with about 6000 men, and appears to have the intention to fortify a hill near Valencia and await reinforcements, which it is said he had been promised from Spain."

Extract of a letter from a young officer on board the Congress, to his friend in Washington, dated

"Rio Janeiro, July 14th, 1819.

"You will probably like to hear something of this place. The coast, as you approach it, is grand beyond description. The mountains are of immense height, extending, as far as the eye can reach, up the country. The Brazil coast may truly be called iron-bound; I believe there is not in the world such another.

"The town looks well from the roads where we lie, which are about two miles off. It is very regularly laid out; but the streets are narrow and the buildings closely crowded. Some inhabitants are said to be of immense wealth; but it seems to me they must be miserable, for there is scarce any sociality among them, and their houses are neither well built nor well furnished.

"The Portuguese are the most superstitious beings in the world; the country being ruled by priests, whom they believe to be sent from God to pardon their sins. I have visited their churches, which are more splendid than any buildings in the states, and saw many devotees kneeling before golden images.

"The King and Queen disagree; they have separate palaces, carriages, and guards. The king is bound up in religion, disliking all shows and parade. The queen is directly the reverse. There are three princesses, all very pretty; one of them quite a beauty. I saw the whole family at the chapel. I have been too at the theatres, and saw dancing which surpassed all I had ever seen. A few days since, a man in business here killed his partner; he instantly flew to a convent, where he is now secure; no officer dare enter it; the place is sacred. It is supposed he will remain there a short time and then be pardoned by the priests; this shews what the people are.

"Nothing of note occurred on our passage, except, when crossing the line, Neptune and his suite appeared. The old man informed our Captain that he understood several of his children were on board, whom he had never seen, and, as they were then in his dominions, he wished the Captain's permission to christen them. And this being granted, they went through the usual ceremony of shaving, blacking faces, &c.

"We leave this to-morrow for Canton."

A western paper has the following fact.—A woman was taken from the Ohio river, with her arms and legs cut off, and the whole sewed up in a bag. It was instantly recollected that one of the neighbors had avertised his wife for elopement, and he was the man who had perpetrated this deed. The man was apprehended, and witnesses were found to declare the body looked like the man's wife. The man declared his innocence. But while the man was in all his trouble about his wife and himself too, it was discovered that this was a woman taken from her grave by a doctor and his students, and then disposed of in this shameful manner. The people did not know what to do, whether most to congratulate the honest man upon his escape, or execrate such shameful conduct. However the man was suffered to go home, and after some time the town was put to the expense of the re-interment of the woman, or rather some good citizens undertook it. Mr. Dart is still looking for his wife in the land of the living.

ON THE DISTURBANCES AND PUBLIC MEETINGS IN SCOTLAND.

The following observations from Bell's (London) Messsenger of the 19th Sept. received at this office by the ship Pearl, betray considerable uneasiness on the extension of the spirit of reform in Scotland.

It is very much to be regretted, but perhaps was necessarily to be expected, that the present running spirit of discontent has reached the hitherto passive and obedient regions of Scotland, and that on the other side of the Tweed, as well as south of it, there are reformers and reform meetings amongst the lowest order of the community. This, for many peculiar reasons, is a bad omen for the public tranquility. Partly by their early education, and partly by a system of dexterous political management, the Scotch have usually been neutral and quiet in all our political agitations. They have resembled Hanover, and Hanoverians, rather than that of a component part of the British empire. The counties and sheriffs are all entirely in the hands of government. They are all in the same state in which the Act of Union found them and confirmed it. This, indeed, is one of the ill effects, which, amidst a thousand good consequences, has almost necessarily risen from the union of the two countries, and the consequent discontinuance of their local legislature. Together with their ancient laws and rights, the Act of Union has confirmed, implicitly at least, if not in avowed terms, their old errors, their inveterate abuses, and their barbarous privileges. Both countries are unwilling to trespass in any degree beyond this act of settlement. The English under the apprehension of exciting jealousies, and the Scotch under the fear that one act, made for the purpose of improvement, might become the precedent for dispensing at pleasure with their ancient system, and for regulating them into a strict conformity with the notions of British administration.

It is under this feeling that the Scottish administration, at the present day, exhibits all the abuses of the reign of James the First.—The representation is completely in the hands of the crown. The counties are little better than close boroughs. The corporations and town officers are all nominees by the crown and magistracy. A public meeting called by authority, against the pleasure of the lord provost or president, is impossible. In a word, Scotland, and every county and town in Scotland, is as much and as despotically under the crown and the ministry of the day, as Hanover is under the regent and count Munster; and a public meeting in Scotland is as ominous to the state and government, as would be a public meeting in Hanover itself.

Such, therefore, is the real character of the public meetings actually called and about to be called in Scotland; and so different is their character from things of the same kind in England. This observation necessarily leads to two inferences;—In the first place, that it must be a very general, and most intense kind of distress, which can provoke meetings against such restraints, and in despite of the long habits of the country; and, secondly, that such meetings have a more than ordinary danger. In the one case, the Scotch have burst forth into the expression of their discontents, in despite of their habitual respect, and, what is more, of the strong present power of their governors and magistracy. Under the second points of view, their very act of meeting—their bringing themselves to meet, has a character which does not belong to the same act amongst their southern neighbors. It is more like the meeting of a disciplined body than the angry and loquacious assemblies of those accustomed to political passions. It is like a meeting of the servants of government—a council of soldiers and sailors, always accustomed to be passive and obey, but at length agreeing to meet and discuss their grievances.

We have never, we trust, been amongst those persons who, either wantonly, or for the purpose of exciting the drowsy feelings of others, by creating circumstances of alarm, have endeavored to give things an exaggerated magnitude not belonging to them; but we certainly do think, that more is to be apprehended from the present state of the popular mind in Scotland than in England.—We will certainly not allow our northern brethren to have stouter hearts, nor more powerful hands, than our own peasantry—but they have certain habits of body & mind, of acting and suffering, which would, unquestionably render them more troublesome to government. They are in the neighborhood of a population as discontented as themselves. Generally speaking, they are a hardier set of men; and when they are brought to associate, and to act together, they cohere more firmly and intimately than such assemblies among ourselves. They have naturally a propensity to clan and swarm, and covey together, which (in any cause that should generally excite their passions) would render them very formidable.

As to the cause of this ill spirit in Scotland, it proceeds from the same state of circumstances as amongst ourselves. Paisley, Glasgow, and all the commercial towns, necessarily shared in the commercial prosperity induced by the late war. For the first fifteen years, they supplied America, who furnished the whole world. In the concluding four or five years, they immediately supplied all Europe, too much engaged in war to work for herself, and, therefore, seeking all she wanted from that ally who could supply her. The resumption of their own manufacturing establishments, by all the continental nations, has cut off a proportionate demand from the manufacturers of Glasgow and Paisley. During the war, by the natural effect of abundance upon population, the inhabitants of Paisley, Glasgow, &c. grew up to the demand for labor; all these hands and mouths remain;—and, unhappily, the mouths remain where the hands are not wanted. Hence, in Scotland as in England, the family of war is living and craving, and the war itself, the mighty mother of them all, is dead. She has left them as a boon to the peace who has succeeded her, but who regards them with the natural feelings of a step-mother, and thinks that they might as well provide for themselves.

BATTLE OF BOJACA.

From the Trinidad Courant, Sept. 29.

Yesterday at day break, the advanced posts reported that the enemy were marching by the Samaca Road: the army immediately got under arms, and as soon as it was ascertained that it was his intention to pass the bridge of Bojaca, to open his communication, and place himself in contact with the capital, we marched by the great road to intercept him, or oblige him to come to action.

At two, P. M. the first division of the enemy got to the bridge, when our Videttes of Cavalry shewed themselves. The enemy, who could not yet see our force, and supposed himself in presence of a corps of observation only, attacked with his Cazadores, while the main body of his army continued to move on. Our divisions marched forward in double quick time, and, to the enemy's great surprise, our whole infantry appeared in column, on an eminence commanding the position. The enemy's advance had got up a part of the road in pursuit of our videttes, and the rest was below at about a quarter of a league distant from the bridge, and shewed a force of about 5000 men. The battalion of Cazadores of our advance, detached a company in Guerilla, while the remainder in column, attacked the enemy's Cazadores, and drove them back precipitately to an old run from which they were dislodged; he then passed the bridge and took up a position on the opposite side. In the mean time, our infantry descended from the eminence and the cavalry kept its march by the road. The enemy attempted a movement from his right, but was opposed by the Rifle Corps, and the British Company. The first batallion of Barcelona, and the Bravo of Paez, with the squadron of the upper plains, formed the centre. The battallion of the line of New Grenada, and the Guides of the rear, united to the battalion of Cazadores, were on the left; the columns of Tanju and Socoro were in the reserve.

Immediately the action became general throughout the line. General Anzuategui directed the operations of the centre and of the right; he attacked the battalion which the enemy had deployed in Guerilla in a glen, and obliged it to retire to its line, which, now in column on an eminence with three pieces of cannon in the centre, and two corps of Cavalry waited our attack.

The troops in our centre, notwithstanding a severe fire from some four of the enemy, on our left flank, attacked his main body; he kept a heavy fire, but our troops in the most audacious style, executing their movements with the very best discipline, surrounded the whole of the enemy's corps. The squadron of the upper plains, charged with its usual bravery, and from that moment the efforts of the Spanish General were unavailing; and he was driven from his position. The company of mounted Grenadiers, all Spaniards, were the first that fled. The infantry attempted to form on a neighboring hill, but were immediately destroyed. The corps of cavalry in reserve waited for ours, with their lances prepared to charge, were cut in pieces; and finally the whole Spanish army in complete disroute, and hemmed in on every side, laid down their arms, and surrendered prisoners of war. Nearly at the same time simultaneously, General Santander, who commanded the left, and who had met with a temaririous resistance from the enemy's vanguard, to which he had only to oppose his Cazadores with some companies of the line, by the Guides of the rear, passed the bridge and completed the victory.

The whole of the enemy's army are prisoners. General Barreyro, Commander in Chief, of the Forces in New Grenada, and his second in command Colonel Ximenes, almost all the commanders and chiefs of corps, a multitude of subalterns, and above 1600 men are prisoners with their arms ammunition, cavalry, &c. Not above 50 men with some officers of cavalry, who fled before the battle was decided, have escaped. The Commander in Chief Barreyro was taken by Pedro Martin, a private of the Rifle Corps.

General Santander, with the advance and the Guides of the reserve, proceeded instantly in pursuit of the fugitives to this place; and General Anzuategui, with the rest of the army, remained during the night on the field of battle, the advantages gained by the republic in yesterday's glorious victory are incalculable.

Our troops never gained a more decisive triumph, and they have been seldom opposed to troops better disciplined, or better commanded.

Nothing is comparable to the intrepidity displayed by General Auzuategui at the head of two battalions, and a squadron of Cavalry, which he attacked, and made prisoners, the main body of the enemy: to him we are in a great measure indebted for the victory.

General Santander directed his manœuvre with judgment and bravery

The Regiments Bravo of Paez, and 1st of Barcelona, and the squadron of the Upper plains, fought with distinguished valour. The columns of Tunja and Socorro, joined the right at the moment of victory. In fine his Excellency is highly satisfied with the conduct of the chiefs, officers, and soldiers of the Libertador army, on this memorable day.

THE GUERRIERE AMERICAN FRIGATE.

We have noticed the departure of this vessel on Tuesday last from Cowes, with his Excellency George Washington Campbell on board. This gentleman is appointed Ambassador from America to Russia, and has on board with him several cases of presents from the PRESIDENT of the United States to the Emperor ALEXANDER; after landing which, at Cronstadt, the Guerriere will proceed to the Mediteranean, to join the American Squadron there.—This ship has a clumsy appearance; her lower masts are short, and of large circumference; her yards not very square, and her blocks are large; her tonnage is 1,550 by measurment; but her equipment is most complete and effective for the purposes of defence or aggression. she is remarkably clean, but nothing appears to be made for mere show; her bits are extremely large, and every rope is led through a separate block; each has its own belaying pin. She mounts on her main deck thirty long twenty-four pounders; on the quarter deck fourteen forty-two pounder carronades, and two long twenty-four pounders, and on the forecastle, 42 pounder carronades, and two long 24 pounders. She has seven Lieutenants and 423 men on board, of whom about three hundred are British-born subjects. Thirteen of her men deserted while she remained here, two of whom have since entered on board one of the sloops of war at Portsmouth, and they hold out no very flattering inducements for our seamen to cross the Atlantic. In this ship the most extraordinary attention has been paid to her warfare qualities; attached to every gun is all the apparatus. including lanterns, swords, pikes, and boarding caps; the tackles are rove through very large sheaved blocks, which considerably lightens the labor, and renders the guns capable of being worked much quicker than in our ships:- the trucks of the gun carriages are of larger diameter, and the axle-trees are much longer, and effectually prevents the guns from upsetting.—Most of the principal visitors in the Island went on board of her during her stay, and the officers most readily allowed them.

FROM HALIFAX.

By the Packet Cherub, from Halifax we have received papers to the 30th ult.

The quarantine on vessels arriving at Halifax from the U. S. has been discontinued. Halifax, Oct. 24.

Arrived last evening, ship Hannah, Johnson, from Margaretta bound for New-Brunswick, put in for provisions.

The Island of Santa Margaretta had been blockaded by 20 Spanish armed vessels, until the time of the Hannah's sailing, 28 days since. She has on board several officers, lately belonging to Gen. Devereux's corps of Lancers: but who are now returning to their native country, from a service, we should suppose, neither very pleasing or profitable. They speak, however, of further success having attended Gan. Paez, subsequent to the capture of Barcelona.

It is said that overtures have been made by mercantile houses in the United States largely concerned in the Whale Fishery, to remove to this town for the purpose of carrying on that lucrative branch of business.

Public Sale.

UNDER the authority of a deed made to the subscribers, by Wm. H. Foote and Benjamin M. Brooke, acting as commissioners under an act of the General Assembly of Virginia, passed on the 21st day of February, 1818, entitled, "an act authoring the sale of certain lands belonging to the heirs of the late Walter D. Brooke," and which said deed was in trust, among other things, to secure to the said commissioners and to the persons entitled to receive the same from the purchasers under said deed the sum of 385 dollars, to be paid on the 19th day of September, 1819, will be sold at public auction, for cash, at 12 o'clock, on Saturday, the 4th day of December next, on the premises, one undivided fourth part of that portion of a certain tract of land, situate in the county of Fairfax and state of Virginia, commonly called which Ann Brooke holds as dower, in her deceased husband's estate, which undivided fourth part, being about 35¾ acres, will be sold, subject to the life estate of the said widow, Ann Brooke.

RETIREMENT,

Valuable Land for Sale.

PURSUANT to a decree of the Superior court of chancery for the district of Fredericksburg in Virginia, the undersigned commissioners will proceed to sell at public auction, upon a credit of one, two, and three years, at Middleburg, in the county of Loudon, on Thursday the 18th day of November next,

4000 Acres of Land,

lying in the neighborhood of Middleburg. The whole land is of that quality termed plaister land, and susceptible of high improvement by the use of it. The whole will be laid out into small tracts, of from two to three hundred acres each, and sold in separate tracts to suit purchasers. The whole well watered, and no country is more healthy. Captain Pickett, who lives near the land, and who is employed to make a survey of it; and Mr. Sommers, who is the agent for the collection of the rents, will shew the land to those who may be inclined to purchase. Bond and security, and a deed of trust upon each tract, will be required of the purchaser.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY on the 25th of April last, a man called NED, formerly the property of Mr. Fitzhugh, of Fairfax, and by him sold to Hepburn & Dundas. He had on when he went away an old country blue and white cloth coat, and kersey trowsers—his right hand in a sling, in consequence of the kick of a horse. Ned is a stupid looking fellow, and hesitates very much when he speaks. I will give fifty dollars if apprehended in the District, or the above reward for apprehending him out of the District, so that I get him again.

Columbian Tavern,

Corner of King & Columbus-sts. Alexandria.

SOLOMON DREW takes the present opportunity of returning his grateful thanks to the public, for the liberal encouragement he has received since his commencement in business, and begs leave to assure them that no exertion has been spared to render his establishment convenient for the reception of travellers and a desirable house for respectable boarders. His stock of wines, liquors, beer, &c. have been selected with attention, and he trusts they will be found not inferior to any in the district. His stabling is fitted up in the best manner, and well adapted for travellers, or others who wish to have their horses kept by the month, week, or otherwise. At the suggestion of some of his friends, he has appropriated a part of his house to the Oyster Business, where will be furnished oyster suppers in the most comfortable manner and reasonable terms.

N B The subscriber will carry on the Taylor ing business as heretofore, and returns his acknowledgements to his customers in that line, for favors received and hopes to merit their future support. Oct. 21

Apply at my Exchange Banking House, Bridge-street, Georgetown, where the fair and most reasonable exchange can be had on bank notes from all parts of the United States. ROMULUS RIGGS.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling,

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment.

Was Committed,

TO the jail for the county of Alexandria on the 3d inst. as a runaway, a negro man called BEN HENDERSON, supposed to be the property of George Thornton, of King George county. The said negro is about 50 years of age; 5 feet 6 inches high; bald head; and a shoemaker by trade. The owner is desired to come prove property, pay charges, and take him away, otherwise he will be disposed of as the law directs.

ANDW. ROUNSAVELL,

september 8 Jailor.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Dogue Neck, Fairfax Co. Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much co fusion, and replies almost unintelligibly: had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again. WM. MASON.

Charles County, Md. June 1.

The editors of the National Intelligencer and Baltimore Federal Gazette will insert the above until forbid, and send their accounts to Port Tobacco for payment.

June 11 tf

100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the sirname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, asmooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bearskin over-coat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of coarse cloathing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.
